World's First 4-in-1 Garlic Press launched at the 2008 IHA Show

Surgical Scalpel Company introduces the world's first 4-in-1 Garlic Press

Redding, California, March 3, 2008 – Van Vacter Products www.coolfoodtools.com, a division of Lassen Scientific, Inc. www.lassenscientific.com will be introducing a brand new, breakthrough kitchen gadget at the 2008 International Housewares Show, the world's first 4-in-1 Garlic Press. Van Vacter Products has met innovation head on bringing cool new design features to kitchen gadgets for the Housewares market, and has done it yet again by bringing in an item that has never before been created.

With twenty years of surgical product development under their belt, Lassen Scientific, Inc. has carved their way into the kitchen gadget market to bring new innovative designs to the kitchen. Van Vacter has previously transformed your everyday ice cream scoops and pizza knives into new and edgy designs bringing fun and innovation to the kitchen. Now, they will introduce a brand new garlic press, featuring four pressing options, made of surgical stainless steel, and their signature ergonomic power handle.

Bringing garlic press innovation to an entirely new level, Van Vacter has designed their 4-in-1 garlic press to feature four press options: Julienne and slicing cuts, to produce ornamental garnishing and bolder flavors for recipes, and Fine press and Coarse press options for milder and add-to-taste flavors. The circular press wheel design, made out of surgical stainless steel, features each press option that can easily be dialed in to the desired pressing needs. Also featured, is Van Vacter's omni-traction ergonomic handle that was just awarded the Orthopedic Research Institute's Seal of Approval, the first kitchen tool company to ever receive this incredible honor.

Lassen Scientific, Inc. has spent over twenty years designing and developing surgical products for the medical industry, and by applying their expertise of precision to the gadget space, they have brought multi-functionality and new product innovation to a whole new level.
